

Defying Extinction: The Story of the California Condor is a fascinating, entertaining, and informative chronicle of just what it takes to bring an endangered species back from the brink of extinction. I watched it totally engaged and recommend it unreservedly to anyone wanting to understand the politics of recovering endangered species. Bravo to producer/director John Mark Maio!

Professor Chris Palmer

Author of Shooting in the Wild (Sierra Club Books, 2010)

Distinguished Film Producer in Residence

Director, Center for Environmental Filmmaking

American University School of Communication

ChrisPalmerOnline.com

palmer@american.edu; 202-885-3408; cell 202-716-6160

Center website: environmentalfilm.org

Profile: american.edu/soc/faculty/palmer.cfm

Blog: <http://soc-palmer.blogs.american.edu/>

President, One World One Ocean Foundation

oneworldoneoceanfoundation.org